

A SIMPLIFIED AND SECURE IT EXPERIENCE FOR THE U.S. ARMY. WHY? BECAUSE ITS MISSION DEPENDS ON IT.

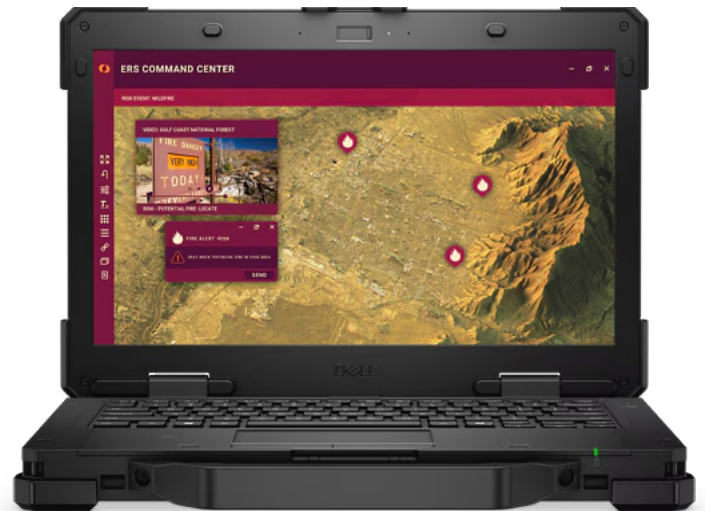

As one of eight companies to be a recipient of the ADMC-3 contract, Sterling is honored to assist the Army with the procurement of its off-the-shelf IT needs. With this honor, Sterling will utilize all of our services, capabilities, experience, and secure supply chain to provide a simplified IT experience so that the Army can rest assured its IT needs are in good hands.

OFFERINGS FOR 2025

- NEW Dell Pro Rugged 13 Laptop (RA 13250): World's smallest 13" fully-rugged AI: PC.
- Dell Latitude 5550 (15" model): Sterling continues offering the 15" Dell Latitude 5550, balancing performance, versatility, and sustainability.
- Dell Latitude 3591: Another new offering, adding to our robust lineup of high-quality devices.

WHY ADMC-3?

- It's designed to meet Army standards, policies, and unique IT requirements.
- A best-in-class contract that reduces duplication and improves pricing efficiency.
- Available to the Army, DoD, and other federal agencies for IT procurement.
- Maximizes cost savings through volume purchasing.

WHY STERLING?

5X Dell Federal Partner of the Year

NVIDIA Federal Growth Partner of the Year

Highly Certified Engineering Teams

Women Owned Small Business

29 Years of Experience

End-to-End Services

O-TTPS Certified

Client Services Focused

Customers using the ADMC-3 contract, now have options with Image Loading. The Army Custom Image (AGM) or a Custom Image can be loaded into their specific configuration during their procurement process. Please reach out to our Sterling ADMC-3 Team to help assist with your specific client needs.

admc-3@sterling.com
877.242.4074
www.sterling.com